

FIRE PROOF STORAGE FILES – WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW

The storage of your company's most important documents and media is a vital security issue for most companies. Virtually all US businesses of any size end up with at least one FireProof storage item, some with many in different configurations. The age of technology has complicated this process somewhat and new products are available that address this changing data and document storage problem.

eNetFurniture offers a full array of the most common options below. It is first appropriate to describe in general how these products differ from each other and what options are available, to assure that the expenditure your company is considering addresses your specific needs. Call with your specifics.

There are 4 types of Storage facilities available in a "FireProof" mode. Each is unique.

1. FireProof file storage. This is the most common product and is available in both Vertical and Lateral file versions. Not commonly known is that you can get the vertical files in two depths, 25" (20" usable) and 31" (26" usable); and the Lateral files in two widths, 36" (31 3/8" usable) and 43" (38 3/8" usable). Common characteristics/features of these units are:
 - a. Protects contents in extreme temperatures up to 1700 degrees for one hour (A two hour option is available on vertical files. See price list). Paper will disintegrate at 350 degrees, thus this is called a UL rating of 350. Interestingly, the average business fire in the US burns for only 20 minutes at a temperature of 800 degrees, so these products have you covered.
 - b. Impact resistant version of all files are available that assure that if the file falls through a floor for up to 30 feet, or is hit by falling debris, drawers will not jar open, and thus contents are still protected. This extra protection is included in the pricing below.
 - c. Follower Block and Hanging frames are pre-installed in all units.
 - d. Standard Plunger Key Lock. Importantly, other lock options are available, including a High Security Medeco lock.
 - e. All seamless steel construction, recessed drawer pulls, heavy duty drawer suspensions.
 - f. Each drawer is INDEPENDENTLY insulated so that each is its own cabinet, if one is left open, fire will not spread to the others.
 - g. High tech "Insulite" Installation provides security with a thinner lighter weight wall than competing units. This is the industry leader.
 - h. Water Resistant Vertical Files are also available with a built-in "Media Chest."

Note, if you have the room for the Deeper Vertical file, or the Wider Lateral file, your cost per foot of usable internal file space will always be a better value.

2. FireProof Media Storage. Paper burns at 350 degrees; Microfiche, film, and computer media is dead and gone at ONLY 125 DEGREES. Drawer insulation design also protects against magnetic interference. A number of options to accommodate various forms of media internally are available. (d, e, f, and g above apply)
3. FireProof Mixed File/Media Storage. These units provide a combination of regular Fireproof vertical file drawers, and media storage drawers so you can buy one cabinet to handle both requirements. 2, 3, or 4 drawer units are available, the file drawers are always on top, media on the lower drawers. Media drawers can be right hinged or left hinged depending on your office placement.

See above comments on media files and regular files. (d, e, f, and g above apply)

4. Fireproof Records Storage. Records Storage combines all the features of the regular FireProof files in an open shelf design for storage of records that do not fit the "filing" mode.

Features mirror # 1 above except references to files.

Here again, customizing you Records Storage with productive options can be important and it is easier to do at the time of purchase than to add them later.
